Math Photography Challenge

Just like Bly discovers in Miss Classified, Math and Photography are both a lot of fun!

Grab a camera—any kind—and try this challenge. You just might win a free book!

Challenge #1

- Find a person younger than you who is doing math and they don't even know it. Maybe they are playing with shapes or counting flowers.
- Take a picture that shows them doing math, but doesn't show their face.
- Be sure to include some other part of their body in the photo—like their hands or feet.

Challenge #2

- Find a person older than you who is doing math but not with a pencil. Maybe they are measuring something or working on the computer.
- Take a picture that shows them doing math, but doesn't show their face.
- Be sure to include some other part of their body in the photo—like their hands or feet.

Challenge #3

- Find some math to do yourself. It can be any kind of math. Find it in your regular lifestyle, not a school type math assignment.
- Take a close-up picture of the math you are doing. Don't show any part of your body.
- Try to take the picture of your math work zoomed in close enough that it may look like something completely different than it is.

After you've taken some pictures and are happy with your product, select your favorite picture of Math. Post it on Instagram or Facebook, and tag Chicken Scratch Books. We'll enter you into a drawing for a free copy of Miss Classified!
